It might feel like the equivalent of the substitute teacher rolling in a TV for every class but, as experts note, there aren't any rules for how to homeschool in a pandemic. ### ICA MIAMI: Allan McCollum Works since 1969

ICA Miami presents the first US museum retrospective for American artist Allan McCollum. Since the late 1960s, McCollum has created works that examine the art object's relationship to uniqueness, context, and value, as well as to the museum that collects, values, and preserves it. This exhibition surveys McCollum's output over more than five decades, and makes inquiries into the artist's series of "regional projects" created since the 1990s. In his work McCollum has used the idea of the collection to explore how we remember, care for, and privilege various material artifacts.
